

YELLOWHAWK
TRIBAL HEALTH CENTER

CARING FOR PEOPLE AND THE EARTH

YELLOWHAWK TRIBAL HEALTH CENTER AIMS FOR NET-ZERO ENERGY USE

Located on the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation, the Yellowhawk Tribal Health Center builds on a strong community's unwavering commitment to wellness and sustainability.

Yellowhawk is the first tribal building in the state to enroll in Path to Net Zero from Energy Trust of Oregon, which offers incentives and resources to projects pursuing net-zero energy use. By working with Energy Trust early in the design phase, Yellowhawk's team was able to incorporate features that make it 60 percent more energy efficient than a standard building of its type.

We are constantly striving to protect, preserve and enhance our environment and our people. This sort of project will assist us in that.

Jeremy Wolf, vice chairman
CTUIR Board of Trustees

For a community that values protecting natural resources, Yellowhawk Tribal Health Center marks another step toward a more sustainable future.

Special Features

- Interior and exterior LED lighting
- Efficient heating and cooling system with energy recovery
- Solar panels on covered parking areas
- High-performance envelope
- Low-flow water fixtures

Savings

- Uses 60 percent less energy than a standard building of its type
- 646,000 annual kilowatt hours saved
- Estimated energy cost savings of $58,000 per year
- $295,000 in cash incentives from Energy Trust

See other Path to Net Zero success stories at www.energytrust.org/zero.

Energy Trust of Oregon is an independent nonprofit organization dedicated to helping utility customers benefit from saving energy and generating renewable power. Our services, cash incentives and energy solutions have helped participating customers of Portland General Electric, Pacific Power, NW Natural, Cascade Natural Gas and Avista save on energy bills. Our work helps keep energy costs as low as possible, creates jobs and builds a sustainable energy future.